Congratulations to all the students and their faculty sponsors who took part in this year's COSM Research Day Presentations. The judges thought all the presentations were well done and had a tough time picking the winners.

Join me in congratulating the winners:

First Place:

Functional genomic characterization of a light sensitive Chlamydomonas reinhardtii mutant, 10E35, that is defective in photosynthesis.

Student: Tai Truong

Faculty Advisor: Dr. Mautusi Mitra, Department of Biology

Second Place:

Fall-detection in walkers used by the disabled and elderly

Student: Ayaan Kazerouni

Faculty Advisor: Dr. Lewis Baumstark, Department of Computer Science

Third Place:

Chemokine Production in HSV-1 Infected Corneas

Student: Megan McKinney

Faculty Advisors: Dr Sara Molesworth-Kenyon, Department of Biology

Thanks to this year's judges:

Mitch Clifton (Computer Science, retired)

Karen Tefend (Geosciences)

Henry Zot (Biology)

Thanks also to the COSM Research Day Coordinators, David Leach and Anja Remshagen.
